We want to glorify God in every aspect of the way Sunday School is conducted, including ensuring children are safe while they are with us. We are committed to upholding Breaking the Silence, the safe ministry policy and process of the Presbyterian Church in NSW. We have a Code of Conduct and also have implemented specific practices to ensure that Sunday School is a safe and fun place for all.

LEADERS WILL:

- Set a good example for the children, in word and deed, both inside and outside the context of Sunday School.
- Teach the Bible to children in a way that is enriching and age-appropriate, with the aim of seeing them love Christ and grow up in him.
- Respect and listen to the voices and opinions of children, treating them with care at all times.
- Ensure that all activities are conducted with a minimum of two leaders supervising, and open to observation by parents and carers.
- Prioritise the safety of children in all activities and interactions.
- Take any necessary steps to report abuse to the appropriate authorities.
- Ensure that leaders have undertaken all necessary training and registration with respect to working with children, as required by both the state government and the Presbyterian Church.

LEADERS WILL NOT:

- Be involved with Sunday School without a verified Working with Children Check, current safe ministry training, and approval of the Session.
- Be alone with children, out of view of other adults.
- Have unnecessary physical contact with children.
- Contact children (by any means) without the permission of parents and inclusion of another leader.
- Take photos or videos of children without the consent of parents or carers.
